

Michael J. Hodge F.R.I.C.S
Mellings Farm
Sourhall Road
Todmorden
OL14 7HZ

16th May 2006

Walltransform Ltd
Unit 5, Rosedale Court
Ellerbeck Way Industrial Estate,
Stokesley
TS9 5GB

To whom it may concern,

Wall-Reform Remedial Insulating Damp Proof Plaster

I have been in the property renovation and construction industry for the last 30 years and during that time I have used some pretty innovative product but I can honestly say that Wall-Reform is the only one that has ever impressed me enough to get me to sit down and write an unsolicited recommendation. Much of my recent work has been the renovation of older properties in the Yorkshire Pennines where wind, rain and penetrating damp come as standard. Tanking and dry lining were my preferred solution but you lose so much character when the walls of an 18th century farm houses are perfectly flat. Half way through my last renovation I decided to search the internet to see if there was a better alternative to dry lining and it was then I found Wall-Reform. I placed an order and I have been raving about the stuff ever since, so much so that I am contemplating taking out the dry lining I installed in my own home and replacing it with Wall-Reform. Both the product and the Sales team at Stokesley are exemplary, they do everything it says on the box, including customer satisfaction calls, and I have no hesitation whatsoever in recommending them and their product.

Mike Hodge FRICS
Visiting Professor University of Salford